Pure Perfection ... where the past and present meets to create golfing excellence

East Lothian provides an inspirational setting for golf, and with 22 courses it may well be the highest concentration of links golf courses in the world. Just a half-hour drive East of Edinburgh, this is a jewel in Scotland's crown as the Cradle of Golf: stretching through 30 miles of stunning coastline, golden beaches and rolling countryside, this is a golfing paradise to suit all standards, individual tastes and budgets. Known as the sunniest and driest part of Scotland, and coupled with links conditions, it is open for business throughout the year, with a warm welcome awaiting every visitor.

It all begins in 1672 at the world's oldest continually played golf course at Musselburgh Links; featuring many familiar names such as Gullane and North Berwick Golf Club, host to the 2015 Aberdeen Asset Management Scottish Open and inaugural Pre-Qualifier respectively; and including the world-famous home of the 2013 Open Championship, Muirfield, which Jack Nicklaus described as 'the best course in Britain'.

This rich wealth of historic courses is also complemented by a collection of recent additions, including the private clubs at Archerfield Links and The Renaissance Club, which offer world-class havens for visitors; and the world's first Nike Performance Fitting Centre at Archerfield Links, where golfers can experience unbeatable facilities and expert coaching.

The quality of golf in East Lothian is further enhanced by a fantastic range of accommodation, excellent food and drink and award-winning attractions.

Scotland's Golf Coast has a diverse offering of accommodation, providing the perfect opportunity to rest, relax and unwind before another round of golf. You will be spoiled for choice with 5-star luxury hotels, family-run bed and breakfasts, self-catering apartments or even centuries-old stately homes all on offer. No matter where you choose to stay you are guaranteed a very warm welcome and an authentic experience.

No golfing break can be enjoyed on an empty stomach: East Lothian is renowned as 'The Garden of Scotland' with the very best locally-sourced, seasonal produce available throughout. All of the fun isn't restricted to the golf course; we provide the complete package for both golfer and non-golfer alike. There are a world of possibilities in East Lothian, where you could be exploring historic castles; discovering local whisky; surfing amongst crashing waves; riding a segway through lush forests; or simply relaxing in an idyllic spa. These are memories that will last a lifetime.

We have been perfecting golf since 1672 and in that time we have had the opportunity to construct some of the most celebrated golf courses and develop a world-renowned golfing destination. It is a haven of traditional values where the customer comes first and excellent service is guaranteed. We look forward to welcoming you to Scotland's Golf Coast.

Scotland's Golf Coast was the host of the 2015 Scottish Open at Gullane Golf Club and in August 2016, the Paul Lawrie Match Play and Scottish Senior Open both took place at Archerfield Links.

Archerfield is one of 22 must-play golf courses along 30 miles of stunning coastline which forms Scotland's Golf Coast only 30 minutes from Edinburgh Airport. Offering year-round golf, we are the sunniest and driest golfing destination in Scotland and home to the world's oldest continuously-played course where we have offered Pure Golfing Perfection since 1672.

With the game of golf one of the biggest sports in the world, it is hard to believe that there was ever a time it was under threat. But from the early 15th century to the 18th century, the sport was actually banned on several occasions for various reasons, mostly because it was a distraction from the practicing archery. Once golf was back on its feet, societies began to form, which were all about likeminded players with a strong link coming together to enjoy a few rounds.

Some of the early societies were a bit over-protective and had strict rules about joining or insisted their players wear uniforms at all times on the course. But today, societies are more about meeting people with a similar background or interest and most importantly, playing golf! Our annual Society Guide is aimed at those who organise their society's events, society members or just everyday players who want to know more about the courses in the UK. All year round, we are busy researching the best courses for societies to visit. We then make sure they are presented in an easy to navigate booklet which you can turn to whenever you need ideas for your next golf day.

THE ROLE OF THE SOCIETY ORGANISER

So, there has been a vote or some other decision making process and you have been named as the organiser of your society's next golf day. Whether you are a fantastic organiser or slightly less sure of your abilities, you can't go wrong if you follow this quick guide!

Set the date

The first thing to do is contact all members of the society with a range of possible dates. There is a great free site called 'Doodle' which might make this task easier. Simply go to doodle.com and put in the possible dates for your event. Then input all of the email addresses of society members and Doodle does the rest. It emails every member, who then clicks to say what dates they are available and which they aren't. You then simply choose the date with the most ticks. Simple!

Organise the club

When you have a date and the number of players attending, it is time to book the club. First of all, choose a location, one that either means most members won't have to travel far or maybe if you are looking for a weekend away, one in an area which has plenty to do and see. When you have a club in mind, give the manager a call as see what society packages are on offer and what you can get for your money.

Tell the members when and where

Feed back to the members as soon as you can. Let them know where you are planning to play and how much it will cost them. This gives them one final opportunity to confirm they are able to play and willing to pay the cost.

Organise a few littler extras

Of course, you can just play a few rounds of golf. However, most courses also offer the option of a lesson with the pro, a photographer and even a DVD of the day. But you can also organise things yourself, such as a longest drive competitions or fantasy leagues.

On the day

When it comes to the actual day, as the organiser you are the main contact between your society and the club. It is probably best to arrive before all the others to make sure everything is okay with the booking and welcome the other members. Some organisers choose not to play around so that they can be on-hand to help with any needs of their society members, but this is only really the case for larger societies. If there are only a few players in your group, you may as well get a round in yourself.

After the event

If things do not go well on the day, make sure that after the event you email members and ask them for their feedback. It may then be a good idea to feed back to the club and ask for a discount on further days or partial refund. If things have gone well, then do the opposite and collect testimonials from your society to put in a nice letter thanking the course for a good day.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD GOLF SOCIETY DAY?

The basis of a golfing society is socialising. When a group of people with a common interest meet to play a few rounds of golf, network, catch up or get to know new friends, you really want the day to go smoothly. Choosing the right courses and arranging a suitable package is a good start to a successful society golf day.

Location is key

Before you even start you need to make sure the majority of society members have agreed on a location. It is no good booking somewhere in Scotland for a weekend of golf when most members assumed you were meeting for a round at the local course! If you are planning to meet regally at the same club, then check where all members live and decide which courses are most central. If you are looking to travel, check there is scope for accommodation and transport. No need to book a hotel yet, but do check there are hotels in your price range within a few miles of the course before you go any further.

A course for all abilities

There is likely to be a diverse range of playing abilities within your society, from the single figure handicap to a beginner. When you are choosing a club, it is best to check that there are different tees available so players with a limited ability can still play and feel competitive. If you have a mixture of genders in your group as well, it might be a good idea to see if there are female tees so that there is no disadvantage when it comes to strength.

Added Extras

Obviously a round of golf or two is the basis for any society day/weekend. However, you may want to mix it up a bit by spending the afternoon with the course pro or organising a class for the whole group. Also, choosing a course with good practice facilities will give players who have finished their round something to do while waiting for other players in the group to finish.

Food

It is always best to over-cater for your player's needs, so assume they will be constantly hungry! Starting the day with a bacon roll is a good way to fill the time while you are waiting for your game to start. A meal at lunch and again in the evening is also a nice touch. Most courses will offer society packages which include lots of food, but make sure that there are also refreshments available during the day. If you can include unlimited coffee and tea in the package, your society members will be incredibly grateful.

When you are there

If something does not go right, don't ignore it but politely offer feedback on it. Don't be afraid to ask for things you need and remember you are paying for their service, time and effort. But politeness is a two-way street. A lot of regular club members dislike societies as the course becomes highly populated. Make sure your members leave changing areas tidy, keep up the speed of play, repair any pitch marks or divots and generally keep the noise down on the course.

Luton Hoo

BEDFORDSHIRE

One of the smaller UK counties, Bedfordshire has a choice of 23 clubs with a wide variety of courses. John O Gaunt is one of the biggest private member's clubs in England and has two very well maintained courses with fairways like carpets and quick greens. There are ball number restrictions on both courses but societies are welcomed. For an undulating course, try Caddington which nestles in the Chiltern Hills, an area of outstanding natural beauty. The course offers a range of 'all-in' deals which can suit every need.

The climate in Bedfordshire is very good for golf, being one of the driest places in the UK. There are also loads of attractions and things to see. The Imperial War Museum in Duxford has a massive display of aircraft and can easily take up most of the day. If the weather is good, a trip to Whipsnade Zoo or Woburn Safari Park is ideal. If you are an outdoors type, a walk on the Chiltern Hills is a must.

GOLF AT LUTON HOO HOTEL

Donnington Grove

BERKSHIRE

One of the UK's oldest counties, Berkshire also has a rich golfing history too. The county has some fantastic countryside courses with something to suit every society.

If you want to play an amazing course at a rather exclusive club, then a day membership for the Martin Hawtree designed course at Bearwood Lakes is a good investment. If you are after a less formal atmosphere, then there are plenty of 9 hole courses with some great and affordable catering on offer as well. There is a large cluster of courses around Reading and Maidenhead which are worth looking at if you plan to play more than one course.

Berkshire is well connected to London and the West via the M4. There are also good public transport links to most courses. Distractions off the course include the historic town and castle of Windsor and the County Town of Reading, which is also home to the London Irish rugby club. Royal Ascot is also in Berkshire which holds some prestigious races and is also home to one of the oldest courses if golf is still on your mind.

CALCOT PARK GOLF CLUB

LEGENDARY COLT

Calcot Park Golf Club is an historic and traditional member's golf club having been designed by the legendary Harry Colt and opened in 1930. Its parkland setting enhances the ambience of the course itself and one's eyes are often attracted to the wildlife when playing the course whilst the changing seasons are complimented by the colours of the trees which abound on the Course. Over many years the Club has invested in improving the golf course and its surrounds to such a level that it now comfortably sits as one the best of its category in the country. The course is rated in the top six of golf clubs in Berkshire, we hope you will avail yourself of the other facilities on offer at Calcot Park.

Membership of Calcot Park provides an ideal opportunity for anyone wishing to improve their game further.

The introduction of Silver and Gold Associate packages are aimed at the casual golfer who, perhaps from personal circumstances, may not be able to take advantage of full membership at Calcot Park but, at the same time, will give them the opportunity to enjoy this renowned Harry Colt designed course set in the heart of the Thames Valley.

Presently, 5-day membership is available for both men and women. With this category, you can play anytime Monday to Friday, and at weekends, during the summer months, later 4:00pm and after 2:00pm in the winter months. 5-day Waiting is also available with promotion to full membership as vacancies occur.

Golf Societies and Companies are most welcome at Calcot Park where we are pleased to offer a variety of golf packages along with a superb, fully licensed restaurant to compliment your rounds of golf.

We have a wide range of Golf Society or Corporate Golf Day and we shall be pleased to discuss these further with you or arrange something to your individual preferences.

Calcot Park is one of the "must play courses" for many societies, corporate days and individual golfers alike and a challenge for all standards of player.

Whether it's the golf or even our conference facilities, the members and staff look forward to making your visit one to remember.

Chiltern Forest Golf Club

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

The unique shape of Buckinghamshire means it borders six other counties and stretches from High Wycombe right up to Milton Keynes. Well known for many years as a dormitory town for rich London types, there are some pretty impressive large houses in the county, including the Prime Minister's weekend holiday home of Chequers. The affluence of the area has led to the development of some top-flight golf courses. The Buckinghamshire and Denham Golf Club are just two of the luxury courses in the county to try.

When the golf is done with, Buckinghamshire has loads to offer. For night life, Milton Keynes and High Wycombe both have a lot going on. If it is more sedate attractions you are looking for then fans of the TV show will have great fun following the Midsomer Murder trail which takes in some wonderful local villages and towns. A day out on the River Thames or an afternoon wandering around Buckingham town are two good ways to relax and enjoy the local area.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE

The low-lying county of Cambridgeshire has a good variety of courses, many of them on the outskirts of Cambridge itself. A little more than an hour from London, it is ideally connected to the rest of the UK. If you are looking for a historic course, Gog Magog Old Course has been played since 1901. At the same club is also the relatively new Wandlebury course which was opened in 1999. For a slightly different experience, Cambridge Golf Club offers a rural course which has an interesting course design of two 9 hole loops. The course is also very welcoming to societies.

The City of Cambridge is beautiful and well worth a weekend away, but don't forget there are other places to stay as well. Small settlements such as Burwell or St Ives offer a rural option. Peterborough is also a ceremonial city in Cambridgeshire and although it is known as a relatively new city, there is still a historic cathedral and pretty city centre to enjoy.

THORPE WOOD GOLF COURSE

PETERBOROUGH

Thorpe Wood is situated in the stunning county of Cambridgeshire near the Cathedral City of Peterborough. The Course was developed as one of the first major leisure projects in the expansion of Peterborough and has been recognised as one of the leading pay-as-you-play courses in the country. Cirled by the River Nene in beautiful surroundings the course is close to major road and rail links.

The course was designed by Peter Alliss and Dave Thomas - two legends of course design in the United Kingdom. Their layout challenges and rewards golfers of all levels and abilities.

The gently undulating par 72 course with a length of yards from the Tournament Tees - test yourself if you think you're up to it - is maintained in superb condition and rarely closes, even in the most inclement weather.

Cambridgeshire's Friendly club

GIRTON GOLF CLUB

In 1936 PGA Professional Allan Gow founded Girton Golf Club. Members and visitors enjoy the easy walking around Girton's gorgeous parkland setting but the mature trees makes for an exceptionally challenging round.

The fairways can be quite tight and approach shots to the cleverly designed par 3's certainly require accuracy. With greens rated amongst the best in Cambridgeshire and three daunting finishing holes (including one of the longest par fives in the county), every game will always be one to remember.

We offer a warm, friendly welcome to members of all ages and golfing ability.

Our dedicated and highly experienced management team know exactly how important it is to get every detail of a Society Day absolutely right.

Located just under two miles from Cambridge, yet with a surprising feel of peace and tranquillity, Girton is the ideal Society Day venue.

CHESHIRE

Cheshire is an area full of things to do, from stately homes, spa hotels and some beautiful gardens. With a plethora of small market towns in the county, there is always somewhere new to explore and visit. Each of them has vibrant town centres full of independent shops and galleries as well as some great local places to eat and stay. There are also a reasonable amount of golf courses in a relatively compact area, which makes course hopping much easier.

The Point at Polzeath

CORNWALL

Golf is an important part of the tourist industry in Cornwall. The county with the warmest climate in the UK, Cornwall is a natural choice for the keen golfer and well worth the long car journey it takes to get there from many parts of the country. If you are after a challenging course, Tregenna Castle Hotel Golf Course boasts some narrow fairways and small greens. For the more modest golfer, Holywell Bay has 18 challenging par three holes and a pitch and putt next door if you fancy an extremely casual hit about.

There are attractions galore in Cornwall and plenty to see and do. For the ultimate 'back to nature' experience, The Eden Project is hard to beat. It is an especially nice place to visit in the winter or a wet day as the tropical and Mediterranean biome offer a welcome relief from the weather. During the summer there are endless beaches to visit and if you are feeling energetic, a surf lesson on Fistral beach should be on your to-do list.

Launceston Golf Club is a friendly member's Club. We are located just off the A30 and the first golf club as you cross the Cornish border, close to both North and South coasts. If you are travelling in the West Country for a golfing break, why not make us your first or last call for your golf in Cornwall.

We offer value for money packages for green fee players and society golfers. Our professional will help run society days, leaving you to enjoy your time with us. We feel sure that you would soon become one of our regular guests ready to return for more Cornish golf.

The elevated levels of the course offer spectacular countryside views over both Dartmoor and Bodmin Moor, with majestic views of our historic town, the ancient County capital and Norman castle.

The club originated back in 1910. The 1914-18 war led to a fourteen year hiatus during which the nine hole course was ploughed up and almost forgotten. It rose again in 1927, therefore we celebrate 2017 as our 90th anniversary and in the 1970s a group of members got together a plan to build another nine holes. Golf course architect Hamilton Stutt was engaged and plans were finalised and after a lot of hard work from members and staff the result is now a well-established 6385 yard par 70 parkland course. It offers an excellent and challenging round of golf for all standards of golfers. For ladies it is 5682 yards, par 73. The course opens and ends with dog-leg par fives and meanders through wooded parkland including the highest point on the eighth where the visitor should stop a while to take in the stunning view over the surrounding countryside of the Devon and Cornwall borders. We are sure you will want to return both for these views and to once again play the excellently prepared golf course.

West Cornwall Golf Club/Links/18 Holes/Par 69/5,847 yards

West Cornwall is an outstanding links course overlooking St Ives Bay and Hayle Estuary to give some of the most fantastic views in Cornwall or indeed across the country.

The oldest club in Cornwall, the length of the course is deceptive with all the clubs in the bag coming into play. In traditional links style, there are dunes bordering a number of holes while others offer wide, undulating fairways.

Visitors are welcome throughout the year and the course remains playable all year round without the need for any temporary tees or greens. Society packages are available and can be tailored to individual groups and reflect excellent value for money.

The clubhouse offers a welcoming bar and renowned catering facilities as well as having some memorabilia of its most famous export, Jim Barnes the inaugural winner of the US PGA in 1916. Philip Rowe, who represented GB & I in the Walker Cup of 1999, winning all of his matches, including beating Matt Kuchar in the singles, is also represented.

An experience not to be missed, your trip to West Cornwall will be one to remember.

CUMBRIA

The rolling hills and mountains of the Lake District make it one of the most picturesque counties in England. This stunning scenery offers the ideal backdrop to a round of golf on one of the 32 fantastic courses in the county. Designed by famed golf course architect James Braid, one of the foremost landscape designers ever known to the United Kingdom, Cockermouth GC is a scenic nine-hole fell-land course. Kendal golf club also offers a challenge for golfers of all calibres and is one of the oldest golf courses in England. It moved to its present home in 1896 which takes in some absolutely breath-taking views of many major landmarks.

There is no way you can visit Cumbria and stay indoors, so make sure you dig out your walking boots and waterproofs! For the hardcore fell walkers there are the peaks of Scafell Pike or Helvellyn to take on. There are also smaller peaks, such as Skiddaw, if you just want a challenging walk. The area is also full of places to eat and local pubs to enjoy. And don't forget the pencil museum in Keswick!

INVESTORS

Three holes are typical. The elevated tee on the par 3 Ninth looks down on a small island green with a steep fall to the right, protected to the front and side by an array of deep bunkers that demand an accurate shot from anything between a wedge and three iron, depending on the wind.

Silloth's signature hole is the par 5 Thirteenth, with a drive over gorse to a deceptively wide fairway. A tight second through a narrow gully, into the prevailing wind, must negotiate an angled slope that deflects all but the most accurate of approaches to an elevated green at the top of a ridge.

The final hole requires an accurate drive on to an angled fairway, usually with the help of the prevailing wind, before a long approach in to the final green under the critical gaze of those safely ensconced in the Nineteenth Hole. The player can then enjoy the comforts of the busy and atmospheric clubhouse: a meal made with local produce; and above all, a warm Cumbrian welcome.

The course has hosted a number of national championships, including the 2009 British Mid-Amateur, won convincingly by Club member, John Longcake. For a number of years, it was the northern regional qualifying venue for the Open Championship, and in 2012 it welcomed the English Amateur Championship

The great golf writer Bernard Darwin wrote about his first visit to the course in 1925. Ever the traditionalist, and never one to hide his enthusiasms, he wound up his account:

'I never more violently fell in love with a course at first sight.'

The Silloth golf course has been a major visitor attraction ever since Davy Grant laid it out in 1892 over the linksland west of the docks. It has evolved continuously since then, including contributions from two of the great classic designers: Willie Park Junior and Dr Alister MacKenzie. A number of blind holes still remain, architecturally-incorrect in the modern era, but a source of uncertainty, surprise and occasional delight to successive generations of members and visitors. Some of the original sandy wastes remain as heroic hazards, but the course is mostly clad in mature dune flora that is ideal for presenting the great challenge of links golf. The fairways are covered in the springiest of Cumbrian turf, inviting crisp iron shots and courageous woods. Shoreward holes on the way out are mostly framed by high sandhills covered with heather and bent; gorse prevails on the back nine. The fairways are never generous in width, but always more rewarding than first appearance from the tee.

Cavendish Golf Club

DERBYSHIRE

A sizable portion of the Peak District National Park lies within the boundaries of Derbyshire and this remote and rugged countryside offers a fantastic background to some fantastic golf courses. While not a British golfing hotspot, there are some great courses to discover, such as Cavendish Golf Club with its partly wooded layout and challenging holes. Chetserfield Golf Club, which has been established since 1897, has grown from a nine hole to an 18 with two returning nines after the war and makes for a great morning/afternoons play.

There are quite a few attractions and welcoming towns for you in Derbyshire. Local places of interest include Bolsover Castle, which is a scheduled ancient monument. The Heights of Abraham, which is a hilltop park overlooking Matlock Bath and serviced by a cable car, is also worth a visit. With the towns of Bakewell, Buxton and of course the city of Derby within the county border, there are also plenty of places to sleep, eat and have fun as well.

'The course that inspired Augusta'

Cavendish Golf Club

Buxton

Created by Dr. Alister MacKenzie and opened in 1925, Cavendish is one of over 100 golf courses around the world that he helped to design. Particularly notable among these are The Augusta National and Cypress Point in USA, Royal Melbourne in Australia and of course, Cavendish, here in Buxton.

In 1923 the Duke of Devonshire requested MacKenzie to design an 18 hole golf course in Buxton and the link with the Cavendish family has remained to date. The course has retained virtually all of the features present in MacKenzie's original design, making full use of the natural features and providing a true test for golfers at all levels of ability. Not long by modern standards, it requires accurate play to the demanding greens, which have left many visitors longing for a return to our exciting course.

Cavendish exemplifies MacKenzie's belief that "length has nothing to do with the quality of a hole".

The abundance of wildlife such as buzzard, sparrow hawk, kestrel, deer and hares can be a distraction even to the most focused player, but we believe that it adds to the experience of playing in this quiet, private area of Buxton.

Societies and Groups

We offer a warm welcome to Societies and other Groups and will do everything we can to make your visit to Cavendish an enjoyable experience. Our aim is to make your day successful. Society organisers and golfers regularly return to enjoy Cavendish and we host many Captains Away Days, corporate events and charity fund raising days during the season.

We would be delighted to discuss a package tailored to your specific requirements and can arrange catering from traditional golf club fare, through to full formal dinner events.

Courtesy Round

Before booking if you would like to experience our great golf course (ranked 42nd in Great Britain's Top Courses and Number 1 in Derbyshire), we would be pleased to arrange a courtesy round for you and a guest.

Ashbury Golf Hotel

DEVON

Unofficially known as Devonshire, the county has a good range of courses which can suit the absolute beginner right up to single-figure handicapped players. Many courses in the area are also aiming to turn green with ecotourism a big business in Devon, which makes playing there all the more attractive. Founded in 1864, Royal North Devon GC in Westward Ho! is officially the oldest club in the country and is considered the St Andrews of England. It is also one of the best value courses in the area. Okehampton GC on the edge of Dartmoor National Park is a challenging and beautiful course and also worth a round or two.

Devon has two major cities, Exeter and Plymouth, both of which have plenty to see and do. Exeter's historic quayside has undergone several years of refurbishment and is now a bustling promenade complete with cafes, small independent shops and galleries. The maritime city of Plymouth is also getting more and more cosmopolitan. The city has a rich and significant history and you can explore the cobbled streets of the Barbican or take a boat ride over the Tamar.

Play Thurlestone at the Weekend!!

Thurlestone welcomes Groups and Societies at any time and especially on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays when the course is traditionally quieter - Most unusual for the majority of courses.

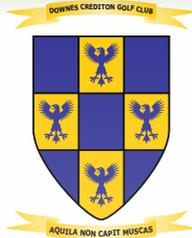

The Club has recorded record green fees in 2015 due to our location as the most southerly golf Course in Devon, the superb presentation of the course and not least the new tee booking system. Tee times can now be booked at any time, day or night, via the website. Visitors can immediately see when the Course is free for them to play and book a confirmed tee time allowing golfers to plan their day better.

Thurlestone, a Harry S Colt designed course, has been described as reminding Peter Alliss of Pebble Beach with spectacular views from all holes overlooking Bigbury Bay, Burgh Island and along the rugged Devon and Cornwall coastline. A mixture of links and cliff-top terrain gives a free draining Course that is rarely closed, backed up by a friendly Clubhouse providing that all important bite to eat and ice-cold beer afterwards.

Keith Crawford, General Manager, said "Our Executive Chef can devise a menu to suit all groups and societies. Check us out at: www.thurlestonegolfclub.co.uk and see why people return time and time again to play Thurlestone golf course."

Dorset Golf Resort

DORSET

It was not by mistake that Thomas Hardy chose Dorset as the backdrop for most of his books. With rolling countryside and the most sunshine hours of any British county, Dorset has certainly earned its title as the 'jewel in the crown of the South'. Courses are spread out across the county offering some great golf. If you are after more than one club during a visit, then there are large clusters around Bournemouth and Poole with only a few miles between them. A trip to Rushmore makes for an interesting game as only half your round will be in Dorset, 9 of the holes falling across the county border into Wiltshire.

Off the course, Dorset offers some great sporting alternatives. Weymouth Bay was the Olympic Sailing venue and the whole of the Dorset coast offers some great waters and challenging currents. The so-called Jurassic Coast is also a world heritage site and is a great place for country walks. Bournemouth has some pretty impressive shopping areas and the night life is vibrant as well. For quieter times, there are the smaller towns such as Shaftesbury or Lyme Regis to enjoy.

DUDSBURY
Golf Club • Hotel and Spa

With wonderful views across the Stour Valley, Dudsbury Golf Club features an elegant piano bar, a luxury spa and scenic golf course. The hotel is set in Dorset countryside, just outside Ferndown. The Club features a modern fitness centre, and the impressive golf facilities include a driving range and 160-acre championship course. Guests can also relax in the swimming pool, sauna or spa. Set in the Clubhouse, Bentley's Restaurant serves a superb international Table D'hote menu and world wine list. Spike's Bar offers light snacks and beverages, and features a large terrace overlooking the golf course.

VISIT THE WINDING DOWNS WITH RINGWOOD BREWERY

We take two things seriously at Ringwood Brewery, our beer and leisure time. Along with creating quality craft ales, we are also relaxation enthusiasts. Our motto is "Visit the Winding Downs" - a place to enjoy some quality time with friends.

Come and 'visit the Winding Downs' in our beer tent outside the Brabazon restaurant this weekend and sample some of our quality craft ales, which have been brewed here in the New Forest since 1978.

Ringwood Brewery was founded by Peter Austin in 1978, a man who is revered as "the father of British Micro-brewing". Today the brewery is able to produce circa 40,000 barrels of its renowned and distinctive beers. In addition to the famous Old Thumper, Forty-Niner and Boondoggle we have now relaunched our popular Best Bitter as Ringwood Razorback.

If you would love to come and see our brewery, drop in to our store which is open 9.30am-5pm Monday- Saturday, or why not take a tour (booking essential) of our brewery? Give us a call on 01425 471177 or visit us online at www.ringwoodbrewery.co.uk.

Wynyard Golf Club

DURHAM

There are 45 clubs in the Durham County Union, all of which play an important part in changing the main industry of the area from mining to tourism. One of the highest rated clubs in the area is Seaton Carew and the jewel in its crown is the 17th on The Brabazon Course, also known as 'Snag'. The hole challenges every player with gorse, rough, dunes and some well-placed bunkers. Another gem of the Durham golf scene is Chester-Le-Street. Close to both Lumley Castle and Emirates Durham International Cricket Ground, Chester-Le-Street offers a great game of golf and was designed by two previous Open Championship winners Sandy Herd and Ted E Ray.

A good place to start as a tourist in Durham is the castle and cathedral. The centrepiece of Durham's tourist attractions, the cathedral was recently voted as the UK's number one landmark and is worth every penny of the recommended £12 donation. If you are in the mood to look at some real boy's toys, head to the National Railway Museum at Shildon which has some fantastic exhibits both indoors and for nice days outdoors too.

ESSEX

The 79 golf courses of Essex are well spread out around the county offering a wide choice for a golf society. Epping Golf Club, between Enfield and Harlow is a fantastic quality course but without the hefty price tag. The website boasts that the club is open every day, whatever the weather, apart from Christmas Day. A bit closer to London is Woolston Manor, which on a good travel day is around 40 minutes from Canary Warf. Woolston Manor has some fantastic conference facilities which means there is good food and lovely lounge areas for when the golf is over.

The countryside of Essex is truly lovely so if you have any cyclists or walkers in the society, tell them to bring their gear. Other highlights are towns such as Thaxted, which has John Webb's windmill and Dick Turpin's cottage to visit. If your visit is in the summer, it might be worth booking a few tickets to go and see Essex Cricket Club at the County Ground in Chelmsford or occasionally at Lower Castle Park in Colchester.

Cotswold Edge Golf Club

GLOUCESTERSHIRE

Gloucestershire comprises part of the Cotswold Hills, part of the flat fertile valley of the River Severn, and the entire Forest of Dean. The golf union of Gloucestershire still respects the old county boundaries and so clubs in Bristol are affiliated. This means great clubs like The Bristol and Chipping Sodbury GC are actually part of Gloucestershire Golf Union. The Forest of Dean itself offers two fantastically beautiful courses, Forest of Dean GC and Forest Hills GC, both of which are stunningly attractive.

The county of Gloucestershire has some attractive towns and cities to stay in. Gloucester is a modestly sized, friendly city with a town feel to it. Not far away is Cheltenham, an up-market spa town which hosts a music, jazz, science and literature festival every year. Cheltenham racecourse is also highly accessible from the town if you fancy a flutter. With a section of the county in the Cotswolds, there are also a host of luxury country hotels and rural towns to visit as well.

Welcome to Henbury Golf Club

Let us welcome you to the picturesque surroundings of our Golf Club at Henbury in Bristol. We are situated in a magnificent parkland setting of mature woodlands bordering the famous Blaise Castle Estate. This is just 5 minutes from the M5 motorway (J17) and with easy access from Bristol City Centre.

We have great views over Westbury on Trym and to the countryside beyond. The little stream which meanders its way through the lower part of the course is the feature of a challenging par 3 which is one of the best of its type in the South West. Each September the golf club proudly hosts the prestigious City & County of Bristol Championship. Many of the former winners of this event have progressed to successful careers on the professional circuit.

Henbury is a truly friendly members golf club with very active golf and social calendars. We always extend a warm welcome to visitors. Upper Rushmire, Wotton-u-Edge, GL12 7PT

One of the most stunning, picturesque Golf Clubs in the south west of England...

COTSWOLD EDGE GOLF CLUB

Cotswold Edge Golf Club is one of the most stunning, picturesque Golf Clubs in the south west of England. It is situated just outside the historic market town of Wotton-Under-Edge on the edge of the Cotswold escarpment.

It is popular with golfers throughout the year, with stunning views from the top of The Cotswolds, looking out over Gloucestershire to the river Severn, The Brecon Beacons, Malvern Hills, both Severn bridges and beyond.

The Cotswold Edge Golf Club opened in 1980 and has matured into a first class Par 71 challenge for golfers at all levels. The course is characterised by undulating fairways, surrounded by Cotswold stone walls, some natural spring waterways and contoured greens that will test all golfing abilities. Measuring just over 6000 yards in total, the front nine is the more traditional parkland layout, surrounded by some of the most spectacular and panoramic views that England has to offer. After warming up and getting your swing going on the top nine, you then come to the back nine, which offers a more sporting challenge with its semi-links style layout. Starting on the tenth with a couple of ponds and then a gentle downhill slope to a very inviting green. Eventually finishing with a healthy walk up the eighteenth, which is just outside the clubhouse where refreshments await you.

Visitors, Societies and Groups are very welcome, the latter by prior arrangement with our Office. We are happy to put together a package of Golf and catering tailored to a Group or Society's individual requirements.

So why not visit Cotswold Edge Golf Club, where the members insist that even if you are having a bad round of golf, you can always step back and enjoy the spectacular views.

Cotswold Hills Golf Club

Cotswold Hills is a private members club and visitors are assured of a very warm welcome by our members and our staff.

Opened in 1976, the course has matured over the years into a fine test of golf and is considered to be one of the finest courses in Gloucestershire. It is a past venue for the English Ladies Amateur Championship and the Men's and Ladies County Championship. In 2012 we were the proud hosts of the England Golf Boys (u18s) County Finals.

The championship course, measuring 6800 yards, features long par 5's, superb short holes and a variety of par 4's, which are both challenging and great fun to play. Five tee positions are available to allow golfers of varying ability to experience a challenging and enjoyable round of golf. The course is consistently praised for the quality of its greens and its overall presentation.

The clubhouse offers a comfortable atmosphere and is perfect for a relaxing drink and freshly cooked food, which can be enjoyed on the patio overlooking the 9th and 18th greens, in the lounge or in the more formal setting of the dining area.

There are two loops of nine holes allowing 2 and 3/4 balls to play on different sides of the course at their own pace.

Boundary Lakes

HAMPSHIRE

One of the larger counties in the south, Hampshire has an eclectic range of countryside on offer. For the golfer, this means some great courses and beautiful backdrops. In total there are 89 courses to choose from including some challenging links courses, such as Hayling GC and Barton-on-Sea GC. There are also four clubs based inside the New Forest, offering some stunning scenery and an interesting golfing challenge in the form of wild ponies on the course! As these courses are in a protected area, everything on them needs to be natural. This makes for a much more 'down to earth' round which is challenging but rewarding.

Off the course, Hampshire has some historic and lively towns and cities to offer. On the coast is Southampton and Portsmouth, two naval cities that have now developed into great places to spend a weekend. If it is something more historic and rural you are looking for then Winchester is ideal. The county's strong association with cricket means that a summer visit can be enhanced by a day spent at the Rose Bowl near Southampton, which also happens to have a very good golf course!

The Shire London

HERTFORDSHIRE

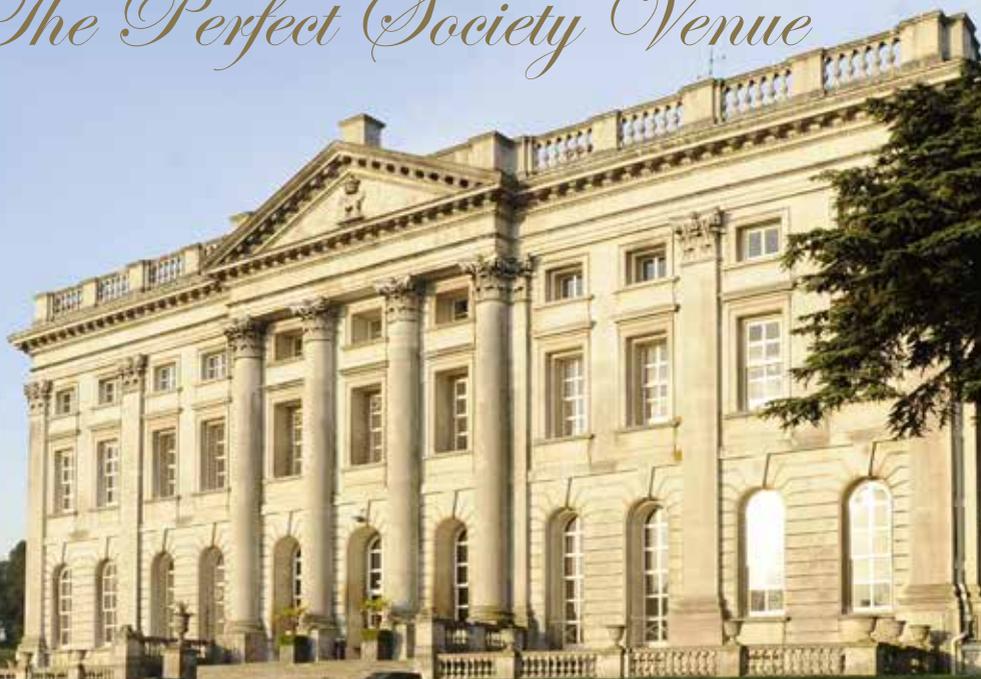

There are a modest number of fantastic clubs to choose from in Herefordshire with many centred near or in the county city of Hereford. Burghill Valley Golf Club is four miles north of the city and has 6255 yard 71 par course based around to picturesque lakes. Herefordshire Golf Club, which is part of the Foxley Estate, is the course to choose if you want some great views of the countryside while playing. Thirty-six out and 36 in, the course is a great challenge at any level of golf.

The county itself has the River Wye running right through it creating not only some beautiful scenery but also providing some great outdoors activities. If you are after something a little less energetic, there are plenty of black and white housed villages to explore as well as some scenic market towns. And don't forget there are also loads of festivals and events in the country every summer.

OLD FOLD MANOR GOLF CLUB

A Club for all Seasons...

OLD FOLD MANOR IS ONE OF THE BEST COURSES IN HERTFORDSHIRE. IT WAS DESIGNED BY ONE OF THE GREATEST GOLF COURSE ARCHITECTS OF ALL TIME – HARRY COLT. HIS TEAM DESIGNED AUGUSTA NATIONAL AND PEBBLE BEACH, TOO, SO IT'S NOT SURPRISING THAT OLD FOLD IS FAMOUS FOR ITS GREENS.

ABOUT OUR CLUB

Originally open heathland; it now has many tree-lined fairways that make the wind direction even less predictable. It also retains the undulations and unpredictability of bounce so typical of Harry Colt designs, which bring the charm and challenge of seaside links to his inland courses. The best feature of all, maybe, are our greens; among the quickest and trickiest in the county. So, it is not surprising that the course has been chosen so often for county and national championships. It was also the Regional Qualifying course for the Open Championship from 2006-2010, and it is now the South of England venue for the worldwide Faldo Series of junior golf competitions.

PROFESSIONAL

Not only can you get first-class coaching in all aspects of the game — our shop has everything you need to play well – and look great while you're doing it. And, if by chance you'd like something that isn't in stock we'll order it for you.

FUNCTIONS & EVENTS

Old Fold is marvellous for weddings because of the setting (which offers so many opportunities for glamorous photographs), the eye-catching and comfortable interior, spacious patio, super catering, fuss-free (and cost-free) parking, and easy accessibility.

Importantly, too, our Meetings and Events team take great pride in making sure that your day goes without a hitch. They will work with you from your initial enquiry, right through to liaising with you on the day so that your perfect day really is perfect.

Seaside golf at it's very best at North Foreland Golf Club

Visitors and societies are welcome all year round.

As an Open Final Qualifying Venue North Foreland Golf Club has it all - a quality free draining chalk downland course offering all-year round golf with no temporary greens or tees coupled with stunning scenery and breathtaking views of the coast.

Founded in 1903, the course is situated on the Kent coast at the point where the English Channel becomes the North Sea. In 1912 Fowler and Simpson were employed to extend the original 9 holes and they designed the existing full 18 hole course. The amazing legacy of that vision lives on to this day to be enjoyed by one and all.

As many lovers of the game will testify, once you have played golf at North Foreland, the urge to return becomes irresistible. Cliff top vistas, beautiful fairways and alluring greens all serve to make your game a unique and memorable experience.

After walking off the 18th green, the clubhouse beckons, where friendly and professional staff will make you feel welcome. Following relaxation, and reflection on your game in the company of friends, you'll soon be planning your next visit to North Foreland.

POULT WOOD GOLF

The Leicestershire Golf Club

LEICESTERSHIRE

Thought to be the county where fox hunting originated, there are quite a few clubs with a vixen as their logo and you are sure to spot a few on business logos around the county as well! There are around 12,000 members in the union and the quality of golf played around the county is high. Stapleford Park, which was laid out by Donald Steel, offers a lovely woodland course which uses the River Eye as an obstacle in four of the 18 holes. Market Harborough offers a more undulating challenge and the final three holes are particularly challenging.

Leicestershire is one of three counties which can officially call its blue cheese Stilton and of course, there is also a rather notable red cheese named after the county's city as well! Melton Mowbray is also within the county's borders, so you can certainly expect some good food wherever you stay! When you are not on the course, then Twycross Zoo has plenty to see and do and is open every day apart from Christmas Day. The National Space Centre is also in Leicestershire and is one of the UK's leading visitor attractions, especially if your society has a few self-confessed geeks in its ranks!

LINCOLNSHIRE

Lincolnshire is home to 56 courses and the jewel in the crown must be the National Golf Centre which is based at Woodhall Spa. The Colt designed courses are surrounded by good hotels in the picturesque town. Societies are greatly welcomed. Another course which is well known as being very accommodating of societies is Boston Golf Club. They have some good seasonal offers and also serve traditional Lincolnshire food in their lovely restaurant.

Lincolnshire has some great countryside but also some appealing costal resorts. The 'bracing' Skegness offers a traditional seaside atmosphere whereas Mablethorpe is better known for its golden beaches. The country also has some top local food and indulging in a locally made Lincolnshire sausage is essential.

West Lancashire Golf Club

MERSEYSIDE

There are 42 golf courses in Merseyside, making it one of the best areas for touring in the UK. Home to 'England's Golf Coast', the range of clubs available is stunning. Royal Liverpool is one of the most celebrated courses in the UK and has hosted The Open and The Walker Cup before. The 82 bunkers certainly make for an interesting challenge and the course is said to be in such a good condition, The Open could be played there tomorrow if needed. Another highly rated course is Eccleston Park. A flat course, the quality of the greens is excellent and there are a few tricky holes to tax every member of your society.

Merseyside itself encompasses St Helens, Wirral and of course the fantastic city of Liverpool. The ultimate place to stay for a society weekend is Liverpool. This vibrant city is well-known for its great nightlife and unique identity. The waterfront and docks houses the Tate Liverpool and for the music lovers in your group, there is also The Beatles Story to enjoy. And of course there is no shortage of places to eat and bars to choose from as well. And during the day, the commercial district will give you plenty of opportunities to treat yourself to something nice. Some new clubs maybe?

Formby Golf Club

An extra special experience

Formby Golf Club truly is a special place. The course has long been renowned as one of the world's great links courses, and has played host to the Amateur Championship on no less than four occasions, Final Qualifying for the Open Championship, the Curtis Cup, the English Amateur Championship, and many more major events. 2016 saw some of the world's best amateur golfers grace our famous links in the Arnold Palmer Cup, the England v France International Match and the Senior Amateur Championship. This can now be your chance to face the same challenge.

Tel: 01704 872164
www.formbygolfclub.co.uk

The course resides in what is a simply stunning setting, with true links turf, yet also having the uniqueness of some holes surrounded by pine trees, offering definition to the approach shots, before the course characteristics change as you head to the coastline, experiencing views out over the Irish Sea. The back nine offers the golfer a very different challenge on every hole, before the round climaxes in front of the famous clubhouse, recently voted the 12th most iconic in world golf.

The course offers four different sets of tees to fairly test every level of golfer, ranging from the yellow course offering an enjoyable challenge to most, to the championship tees offering something that even the best players in the world have failed to tame.

Formby prides itself in being one of the best on and off course experiences in the UK, so following refurbishment works in recent years, and being recognised within the industry for being at the forefront for quality and service, the off course experience is a fitting accompaniment to the world famous course. With luxurious, yet homely surroundings, and exquisite fine dining upstairs, accompanied by friendly, welcoming, five star service, a trip to Formby is truly something every golfer should experience at least once.

Tasty golfing fayre, made using locally sourced ingredients is available in both bars downstairs and fine dining is available upon request in the upstairs dining room, with capacity to seat up to 120 for a dinner or an event. The Club even has its own bespoke blend of coffee beans in the Formby range of coffees, and the Formby Gin and Tonic, carefully sourced using the finest complimenting ingredients to create a very special drink, typifies the Club's care, precision and refinement in everything they do. Meticulous care has been put into sourcing the very best wines at every price point by the Club, and a variety of local and national real ales are thoughtfully chosen to enhance every part of the day.

Tee times are limited, so please call us for availability. Why not come and sample the Formby Experience? Everyone should try it at least once

Hesketh Golf Club

Hesketh is the oldest golf club in Southport, established in 1885. The course is predominantly links in nature and Championship golf has been played at Hesketh from the early days.

In addition to being a previous qualifying venue when The Open was played at nearby Royal Birkdale, Hesketh has hosted many other professional and amateur championships. Most recently, it hosted the Junior Open in 2008 and co-hosted the Amateur Championship with nearby Hillside in 2011. Hesketh will co-host the 2018 English Men's Amateur Championship with neighbours Formby Golf Club.

The Club offers visiting golfers a series of open competitions including a weeklong golfing festival every August and a competitive range of golfing packages are available to visitors and societies alike.

Hesketh is also home to the 'Golf Prize of Nations Trophy', an important piece of Hesketh's history that celebrates the exploits of Hesketh's Arnold Bentley and Bridlington's Tommy Thirsk who won the Baden Baden golf event played in association with the 1936 Berlin Olympic Games.

VISITORS

Visitors are extremely welcome at Hesketh where they are sure of receiving a very warm reception from everyone at the Club.

The Club is renowned for its friendliness towards visitors from the moment you enter the clubhouse or the Pro Shop, until you leave, having enjoyed your round of golf and the Club's hospitality.

Whether you are an individual, group or society you are guaranteed a competitively priced golfing experience.

The Club's bar and catering facilities are modern and fully up to date in a clubhouse that exudes our proud history, as you would expect from the oldest club in Southport.

MIDDLESEX

It is somewhat astonishing to consider that there are quite as many golf courses in Middlesex as there are, considering that most of the county is consumed by the enormous presence that is London. In fact, some people may tell you that the number of places to play is impossible to accurately calculate, such is the growing love for urban golf in London, whereby the green, countryside fairways are ditched in favour of grey, stone, inner city streets. A rising golf phenomenon, its popularity has become such that there is now even an official urban golf championships taking place in several locations across the city.

Middlesex is in fact no longer a ceremonial or administrative county, but in the minds of the nation it still is a defined area. Dominated by London, Middlesex has never had a county town. The metropolitan part of Middlesex is obviously not only very well connected both nationally and internationally, but also offers a massive range of accommodation and attractions. The outlying areas such as Hays and Harlow or Uxbridge also have places to stay.

Bloxwich Golf Club

THE MIDLANDS

The Midlands comprises what was once known as the Kingdom or Mercia and has no strict definition. Some areas such as Oxfordshire and Lincolnshire are often controversially included, but the biggest city and metropolitan area is definitely Birmingham. With several other counties such as Derbyshire, Leicestershire and Nottinghamshire definitely included under the banner of 'midlands', there is definitely a wide range of courses available in the large area. Accommodation ranges from inner-city hotels to small cottages in the countryside and the area is well-served by the M5, M40 and M6. There is also a wide-range of historic towns to visit as well. From the castle town of Warwick to Robin Hood's Nottingham, there is always plenty to see and do. And don't forget the stunning nightlife in Birmingham too!

Visitors welcome to one of the best kept secrets in the West Midlands

Welcome to Bloxwich Golf Club, where you can enjoy a club with the best of both worlds - the peace and tranquillity of a rural club yet with an easily accessible location.

Leave our first tee and you will be transported into the heart of arable Staffordshire countryside on our undulating semi-parkland course. You will find it hard to believe you are but a few miles from the M6 and adjacent to the A34 when the only noises you hear are songbirds in summer and the occasional tractor.

Situated on the northern edge of the Black Country, Bloxwich Golf Club is a well-established members' club founded in 1923. We offer excellent facilities and traditions you would expect from one of the premier clubs in the area.

Our catering is provided by Our chefs Jack Lloyd and Kerry Bond, providing a range of quality snacks and meals to suit all budgets. From breakfast to evening meal, food is available throughout the day, and our well stocked bar is open between 11am and 11pm (or beyond by request).

A warm Black Country welcome awaits you from our pro Richard Dance, Bar Manager Laura Richards, and all of the staff here at Bloxwich Golf Club. We look forward to making your visit a truly memorable one.

A mature, undulating, parkland course of distinctive character, Bloxwich makes full use of its natural hazards to provide a testing round of golf and a real sense of achievement for players of all levels. The 18-hole course also boasts a practice pitching area, putting green, short chipping and bunker area, and nets to perfect both the long and short game.

Although not the longest Championship length course in the area, at 6296 yards off the white tees, 6096 off the yellow tees, and 5340 for Unusually, Bloxwich has five par three's and four par five's, but its most demanding holes are its par fours. Two testers to look out for are the 455 yard closing hole which drives over water against the prevailing westerly winds before gradually rising up to the green, whilst the 458 yard twelfth, with water hazards threatening the drive and approach shots, poses another formidable challenge. Bloxwich is one of the most challenging and rewarding.

Leamington & County Golf Club

Located on the aptly named Golf lane, Leamington & County Golf Club is one of the most exciting challenges in the area, which is why it has become a firmly established groups and society venue.

Leamington & County was borne from a desire to satisfy the golfing needs at the thriving Victorian Spa and this tradition has continued in style for over a century enhancing our reputation as a friendly and exciting golf club.

Laid out in two loops of nine, the course rolls over the finest parkland terrain, providing a flawless setting for an excellent test of golf.

The present day course was redesigned by Hawtree & Son and, as such, comprises a number of tricky holes in a charming setting that will more than entertain your golf society.

Visitors are always made to feel welcome at this charming golf club, with the very best of facilities available to make your day run as smoothly and with as much fun as possible from start to finish.

Just two miles South of Royal Leamington Spa, your society will be perfectly positioned to enjoy all the town has to offer, as well as great golf and service.

NORFOLK

A large county, the golf clubs are quite spread out with a good mixture of courses including some great links. Sheringham GC is one such example with some holes very close to the cliffs. It is also near the station so the odd train, and occasional steam train, make a nice distraction from your round. Inland there are also some great courses, such as Eaton Golf Club, which is short but challenging. It also offers really comprehensive hospitality for visiting player, ideal for society bookings.

Norfolk does not have a motorway, which is a blessing as much as it is a curse. While quiet country roads make for a nice drive, it is not a speedy county to navigate. That said, large settlements such as Norwich feel surprisingly relaxed and town-like as there is so much more space per person than other cities such as London and Birmingham. There are also some fantastic seaside resorts, such as Great Yarmouth, which can offer a different option to the society golfer.

Whittlebury Park

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE

If you want to play more than one course in a day, then Northamptonshire is a great place to visit. With quite a few clubs clustered around the county town of Northampton, it is easy to navigate from one to another swiftly. The M1 makes it easy to reach the area hastily and there is also a good train service. If you would rather stay in one place, there are some good golf resorts within easy reach of the town centre, such as Overstone Park Hotel.

A great location for a society day is Silverstone, which holds events throughout the year at the circuit to compliment your day out on the green stuff. There is also a splattering of country houses that are open to the public for viewing across the county. Rockingham Castle is open from April to May and is ideal if you want to wander around some very attractive gardens. Sulgrave Manor is also worth a visit, especially if there is an American in your society as it was the English home of George Washington.

WHITTLEBURY PARK GOLF & COUNTRY CLUB

Whittlebury Park is pleased to announce the completion of the Paddock Suite Accommodation. Our great value packages allow golfers to combine the very best in Northamptonshire hospitality, comfortable accommodation and the opportunity to test their skills on one of the finest Parkland golf courses around.

With 41 en-suite bedrooms, each fully equipped with televisions, free wifi & tea/coffee making facilities, there really has never been a better time to visit Whittlebury Park.

Whittlebury Park has four distinct nine-hole courses the Royal Whittlewood, Grand Prix, Wedgewood and the 1905 Course:- This combination of beautiful courses means you can link up and play a number of different 18 hole (Par 72) courses during your visit.

Facilities also include a pro shop, two-tiered driving range, putting green and indoor tuition centre, along with the new Callaway Regional Performance Centre.

As a two-times winner of the 'Clubhouse of the Year Award', you should be in no doubt the catering and service provided are as outstanding as the golf.

Sherwood Forest

NOTTINGHAMSHIRE

There is a good spread of quality courses around the county and some nice places to visit and stay as well. Nottinghamshire Golf and Country Club has an impressive front nine set around a lovely lake while the back nine offers some ideal opportunity to spot wildlife. The Master's course was extended in '97 and has been re-modelled recently to improve play. For something more all-inclusive, Rufford Golf Club is a resort based course offering a challenge for golfers on any level. All the facilities are open to society player, who are warmly welcomed. Nottinghamshire as a county has plenty to offer. For a start it is a big location for cricket and there are regular topflight matches to see at Trent Bridge.

Nottingham itself is a deeply historic city with plenty of accommodation, restaurants and good shopping areas. The county also has the Midland Mainline running right through it, so very few areas are far from a local connection to the line between London and Sheffield. The city centre is ideal for an afternoon's shopping and there are plenty of places to eat to suit all budgets.

Sherwood Forest Golf Club is one of the finest heathland golf courses in Great Britain - a “hidden gem” as it is often referred to

You will find us in the East Midlands to the east of Mansfield, Nottinghamshire. We are a long established heathland course alongside the pines, silver birch and oak trees of Clipstone Woods within the legendary Sherwood Forest and are currently rated 92nd best in the British Isles and 44th in England. The course was initially designed by Harry Colt and subsequently enhanced by James Braid.

The English Golf Union, when staging the 2006 England Boy’s Amateur Stroke Play Championships, described Sherwood Forest Golf Club as being “in a league of its own”. As a premier course the club has hosted many national competitions over the years, including the ‘British and English Seniors’ and regional qualifying for the ‘Open Championship’.

The Oxfordshire

OXFORDSHIRE

The dreaming spires of Oxford are a big draw for tourists from all over the world, but Oxfordshire has more to offer than just a beautiful city. Being less than an hour from Central London by train means it is well connected and there are also a whole host of courses on offer from the world class Frilford Heath to the three-par at Hadden Hill. If you are planning to stay in Oxford, then there are four courses within or just outside the city centre to try. Elsewhere, there are many small towns such as Witney, Abingdon, Banbury or Chipping Norton all with top courses within easy reach.

Outside of golf there is plenty to see and do. In the city centre are the world famous Ashmolean and Pitt Rivers Museums as well as the new Oxford Castle development, which has fostered a European café-culture feel. Not far outside of the city is Blenheim Palace which is set in the attractive town of Woodstock. Ideal for a day trip.

The Oxfordshire Golf, Hotel & Spa

Designed by Rees Jones, The Oxfordshire is considered to be one of the most exciting courses in the country – a pristine American-style parkland course that offers the ultimate tactical challenge across water.

The strategically-contoured holes blend naturally into the surrounding countryside to provide a challenging game of golf. With four lakes and 135 bunkers, the course makes full use of the terrain and the natural elements to provide characteristics similar to those of a links course.

The Oxfordshire offers one of the finest clubhouses in the country and with a 4* hotel offering 50 luxurious bedrooms, spa and leisure complex, makes an ideal destination for a challenging game of golf and leisure break.

Voted into the Top 50 places to Stay & Play in Golf Monthly Magazine 2011, as well as regularly featuring in the Top 100 courses in the England.

Frilford Heath is Oxfordshire's finest golf club, and one of the best in the south of England. Rarely can a club offer 54 holes of top quality golf and almost a hundred years of golf design heritage. The original 18 holes were laid out in 1908 by five times Open champion JH Taylor, who along with James Braid and Harry Vardon dominated golf around the turn of the twentieth century, part of the 'Great Triumvirate'. Frilford Heath is Oxfordshire's finest golf club, and one of the best in the south of England. Rarely can a club offer 54 holes of top quality golf and almost a hundred years of golf design heritage. The original 18 holes were laid out in 1908 by five times Open champion JH Taylor, who along with James Braid and Harry Vardon dominated golf around the turn of the twentieth century, part of the 'Great Triumvirate'. The Green course holes 5 to 13 retain their original layout today, a testament to their designer!

Frilford Heath along with Woburn and Wentworth is unique in style, it is one of very few clubs with three championship standard golf courses, each offering a range of delights, allowing players to choose a classic or a modern challenge to suit all standards of golfers!

Situated on 500 acres of glorious undulating heathland just south of Oxford city, Frilford Heath is built on sandy subsoil and combined with the latest equipment and modern maintenance schedules enables the Club to present its courses to the finest playing standards all year round.

The Red was described by Bernard Darwin as 'both good and difficult', and it still lives up to this description. An authentic championship challenge at just over 7000 yards from the Black Tees, it offers a traditional heathland golfing experience with pushed-up greens that run fast and true and fairways that demand accurate driving if golfers are to score well. The course was designed by five-time Open champion JH Taylor, whose other courses include Royal Birkdale and Royal Mid-Surrey; in 2013 it hosted the English Amateur, and has hosted the European Tour 1st Stage Qualifying

Frilford Heath Golf Club

since 2011 and welcomed Regional Open Qualifying in 2016. The stretch between holes five and nine is especially strong, with four hefty two shot holes and a par three that many will vote the most memorable on the course. The tee shot must carry a pond, and the elevated green is further protected by out of bounds to the rear. Seven consecutive par fours to close the round are a testing finishing stretch matched by very few courses.

The Green course at Frilford Heath may be the shortest, at just over 6,000 yards, but playing to a stiff par of 69, it is no pushover. As at the legendary Rye links in Kent, the Greens only par five is the opening hole - from then on, birdie opportunities can be few and far between. Likened to classics such as the Sunningdale Old and Swinley Forest, the Green course is more than a noisy neighbour, its original features including small undulating greens and sharp faced bunkers await the errant shot. The newest addition to the Blue course, was designed by golf course architect Simon Gidman and opened in 1994, this Par 72 offers a more modern "links" feel with a notably stern test on the early hole, where you will not need reminding about the card threatening water. From the Black Tees at over 6700 yards the course meanders through a number of par four dog legs and four par fives that face in all compass directions, seemingly getting the best of the prevailing westerly. The subtle greens are more undulating than on the two older courses, and offer a number of interesting and challenging flag positions as tested by the Brabazon Southern region qualifier in 2010. For five days every spring the Blue is coupled with the Red Course as the home of the Europro Tour Qualifying School.

The question everybody asks is which course is the best at Frilford Heath Why not join the debate!

“History tells us that some 480 years ago, no less a person than Henry VIII used to enjoy his sporting afternoons here, hunting deer and wild boar”

As our name suggests, woods play an important part in the topography of the course. Designed by Simon Gidman, the par 73 course is set in 170 undulating acres of what was once an extensive woodland. History tells us that some 480 years ago, no less a person than Henry VIII used to enjoy his sporting afternoons here, hunting deer and wild boar.

Two loops of nine holes play in opposite directions around a 30 acre wood, which lies at the centre of the course. Testing natural hazards come courtesy of 13 lakes, some impressive ground vegetation and a richness of fine, mature trees, most of which are specimen oaks. Great care has been taken to set out the 18 holes in such a way that each fairway and green has its own distinctive character and offers its own particular challenge. All the tees and greens meet USGA specifications and the irrigation system is fully computerised.

The result is a course which, framed by an ancient and beautiful landscape, combines a feeling of maturity with the prospect of a rewarding round of golf. Studley Wood is a friendly family golf club with a superb modern clubhouse offering extensive food and beverage. We look forward to welcoming you at the golf club soon.

Signature Hole: 15th, Par 4, 373 yards
The ideal tee shot is a draw to a fairway that is notoriously difficult to hold.
Uphill second to probably the trickiest green on the course.

SOMERSET

Golf has been a part of life in Somerset as far back as 1880 when the first course, Bath Golf Club, was opened. There are now 31 clubs to choose from in the area and the premier course is generally accepted to be Burnham and Berrow, which has played host to many prestigious competitions. Enmore Park is also a highly regarded course and sits on the edge of the imposing Quantock Hills.

Somerset is often driven through on the way to the West, but in itself, the county makes a great destination for a society. The M5 and West of England Main Line provide great transport links and there are plenty of towns to stay in, such as Western-super-Mare, Taunton and Bridgewater. There are also some great tourist spots to explore, such as Glastonbury Tor or Dunster Castle.

Farrington Park is the ultimate in golf day venues, offering golfers up to 27 challenging but picturesque holes of golf, delicious food and the attention to detail that turns a good event into a great one.

SUFFOLK

Golfing in Suffolk is a high quality experience for golfers and the county has got a range of courses from heathland to parkland to links. Society golfers will certainly enjoy High Lodge GC course, which not only has a great course but can also offer a wide range of other outdoor activities, such as clay shooting. Ufford Park Hotel is a parkland course which also has a spa, which makes it great for a long, relaxing weekend of golf.

Suffolk is definitely a location for those who like their food and drink. Both the Green King and Adnams breweries are based in the county and there is also a large range of local beers available, such as Calvors and ESB. Along with beer, Suffolk is also famous for local meat. The county's long association with Turkey farming is well known, but good quality pork and beef are also raised locally. And don't forget all the local pubs serving the locally produced produce, so you can't go wrong!

Wish you were here

Set in 120 acres of undulating parkland, Ufford Park Woodbridge Hotel Golf & Spa has everything you could possibly wish for. With 90-bedrooms it is an ideal location for those wanting to discover Suffolk's beautiful coast and heathlands, and a mere 10 miles from Ipswich.

Ufford Park golf course is an award-winning 'Top Winter' 18 hole, par 71 course and is generally regarded as an enjoyable, yet stern test of golf. Furthermore, our excellent drainage system ensures the greens can be played all year round. It is also home to the only two-tier floodlit driving range in Suffolk. With covered, heated bays, it ensures year round use. Golf buggies are available to hire, as well as an onsite AmericanGolf superstore for a huge range of modern equipment, clothing and accessories.

After a round on the golf course, why not relax in the Thermal Suite Spa with it's own hydro pool, including tension-easing water jets, an aroma steam room where essences gently cleanse and revitalise the body and a mineral grotto full of exotic fragrances.

Golf and Spa Breaks start from £93.50pp.

The grass is greener

Ufford Park Woodbridge

It doesn't matter if you play off scratch, or have just decided to take up golf, you will receive a warm welcome at Ufford Park Woodbridge.

Open to all, members and non-members can practice their swing on our 2 tier floodlit driving range before setting out on our award-winning 18 hole, par 71 course. Due to excellent drainage it is playable no matter what the weather.

SURREY

Having great transport links and being so close to London, Surrey is very popular for a visiting golf society. The county is currently the 'in place' to live for the rich, meaning that there are some very modern courses on offer and some equally luxurious places to stay. At the high-end of the market is Sunningdale GC and of course the world famous Wentworth. For lady golfers, Sunningdale Ladies GC is always worth a visit.

Aside from golf, Surrey can also offer two other massive attractions. Epsom Downs racecourse is set in the picturesque area of the North Downs and every year hosts the famous Derby Festival. There are also loads of non-racing events held there all year long. Also in Surrey is Brooklands Motor Racing Circuit, the oldest racetrack in Britain. Although the circuit was closed for racing in 1939, the area became devoted to flying instead and played a big part in World War II. It is now an aviation and motoring museum and you can look around a real Concorde, browse the exhibits and even try out a flight simulator.

Mitcam Golf Club

Carshalton Road
Mitcam Junction
Surrey
Cr4 4Hn

www.mitcamgolfcourse.co.uk

Mitcam Golf Club is unique with its moorland turf which makes it one of the driest courses in the country and is playable all year round. It's a natural course with trees and bushes that shut out the busy world that surrounds the common. Skilfully placed bunkers makes this course a very challenging Par 69.

Located as it is just 12 miles from the centre of London and with a mainline railway station (Mitcam Junction) literally 50 yards from the clubhouse, it is ideal for anyone living in or visiting the city who wishes to enjoy a quality 18 holes without having to travel any great distance. There is also ample car parking on site.

The course itself offers a stiffer challenge than it might seem upon initial inspection of the card. Designed with shot-making strategy in mind, the course demands accurate approach shots and consistent putting. With natural hazards and challenging greens the course invites competition for all skill levels.

The golf club and course is enjoyed by its members and visitors alike. One of the club's many assets is its fairways which have matured over the years. The course still retains many of the original features and after a round golfers may relax in the spacious bar overlooking the 18th green. There is also a well stocked professionals shop.

With its unique parkland / downland character and Grade II listed clubhouse, Tyrrells Wood has long been recognised as one of the finest golfing venues in Surrey. The course, set amongst a myriad of specimen trees framing magnificent views of the surrounding countryside, was originally designed by five times Open Champion James Braid to provide a tough but rewarding challenge.

As a well established Members Club respecting all the traditions of golf, we extend a warm welcome to visitors and believe our superb facilities will satisfy the demands of the most discerning golfer. Although the course has undergone continuous improvement over the years, care has been taken to preserve Braid's unique approach to green and bunker design.

With its central location, fine facilities and beautiful course, Tyrrells Wood is the perfect venue to host your society day. From an early morning breakfast to a gourmet meal after play, we are able to cater to all your needs.

SUSSEX

A county that is known for antique hunting, there are also some really good finds when it comes to golf courses too. The warmer than average climate means play is comfortable for most of the year. Crowborough GC is a heathland course with excellent, unequalled views across the South Downs. Similarly, Rye GC is a fine example of the work of Henry Colt, the legendary golf course architect and one of the famous course designers who influenced the shape of courses across the country at the start of the twentieth century.

The coast is probably the highlight of Sussex with the vibrant city of Brighton and Hove offering some of the best nightlife in the county. For a quieter stay, the pedestrian-friendly town of Bognor Regis is ideal. Bognor also has the remains of a Roman villa and of course Butlins, who do some great group deals throughout the year. Across the county are also plenty of working farms open to visitors as well as several good museums.

TYNE AND WEAR

With the city of Newcastle upon Tyne as an ideal metropolitan base to stay, your society can easily explore some of the great courses that the area has to offer. To the North, the Parkland's club is a short drive out of the city and offers an ideal place to play if you have a mixture of handicaps in the group. The course is forgiving and the driving range is a top class facility. To get the true Tyne and Wear golf experience though, you must head to Ravensworth Golf Club. What could be better than playing golf with a view of the Angel of the North as a backdrop? The course is also challenging but ideal for a straight-shooter. The clubhouse is well appointed too and greens are always in great condition.

Tyne and Wear is definitely a metropolitan area with Newcastle-upon-Tyne being the urban centre. The city is often listed in the top ten nightspots in the UK and it also has many theatres and concert venues as well. The area is not known for its countryside, but don't count-out the possibility of staying in one of the smaller towns and villages surrounding the more urban areas. There are certainly some cheap hotel deals to be found in some lovely locations.

WARWICKSHIRE

One of the few counties without a city, Warwickshire is a rural county with plenty to offer the society golfer. The county is home to one of the most prestigious golf courses –The Belfry- which has hosted the Ryder Cup on four occasions and is a regular on the European PGA Tour. The Kenilworth is also a very popular venue with society golfers and has a range of packages for group visits. Most of the other courses in the county offer group packages as well and it is certainly a society friendly area.

Warwickshire is steeped in history! Not only is it the birthplace of William Shakespeare, but there are also two castles to explore. Warwick Castle is the most in-tact of the two and the wax works included inside make history really come to life. If you are more into exploring ruins then a trip to Kenilworth Castle is a must. But of course the highlight of any trip to Warwickshire would not be complete without a trip to Stratford –upon-Avon. Aside from the William Shakespeare attractions, there are also several great museums including Harvard House, a complete 14th Century town house.

SOCIETY GOLF IS BACK AT FOREST OF ARDEN!

WILTSHIRE

Wiltshire's claim to fame is having two world heritage sites within its boundaries. Stonehenge and Avebury both attract thousands of sightseers every year and the surrounding areas offer some great places to stay. Situated on the M4 corridor, transport to most of the courses is easy. The clubs are also nicely clustered together which will allow for easy 'course hopping'. Marlborough GC is just 7 miles from the M4 and offers a satisfying challenge. The world famous Bowood GC boasts not only a great course but a luxury hotel and a Capability Brown designed garden as well.

When you have exhausted the golfing options, there are other things to do in the county, such as a visit to Longleat Safari park or spending a day shopping in Salisbury. Swindon may not be the most attractive of towns, but there is a vibrant arts scene and some good night life to be had as well. Don't forget every May sees the Swindon Literature Festival, which would make a great accompaniment to a few days of golf. The Kennet and Avon Canal bisects the county so on summer days there is also ample time for messing about on the river.

Tee off at Beautiful Bowood
and enjoy golf at its best all year round!

Play as a society of 12 or more from only £40 per person to include 18 holes and a one course meal.

West Wilts is an extremely friendly traditional member's golf club situated on the edge of Warminster and the Salisbury Plain.

Set in the Wiltshire Downs, the club was established in 1891 and the course, designed by J. H. Taylor, has excellent fairways and greens on chalk down-land with superb views over three counties.

Very good playing conditions are enjoyed all year round, making West Wilts accessible to visiting golfers and societies from January right through to December.

The course has many of the same characteristics as an inland links and being 5,754 yards long, (Par 70, SSS 68) with 50 bunkers and relatively small greens. It provides players of all standards with a fair test of golf.

A good short game is essential to score well and accuracy is essential.

Indoor and outdoor practice facilities are available and a full catering service with excellent food is provided in the clubhouse.

Visitors and societies are very welcome. Please contact Lawrence Wilkin (Professional), pro@westwitstgolfclub.co.uk for further details.

What's not to love?

YORKSHIRE

The largest ceremonial county in England, Yorkshire is divided into four administrative districts – North, South, West and East Riding. With such a large area of the county rural land, courses have managed to pinch the best spots for themselves. One such course is Sand Moor. Just five miles from Leeds, the Dr Alistair MacKenzie designed course is very popular with societies and a good price considering the quality of the fairways and greens. Mid Yorkshire Golf Club is a very attractive course for the society golfer as well. Although the course is relatively young (1993), it has matured well in a short space of time. There are also great facilities for society golfers with the option of pre-play instruction and photographer hire.

Yorkshire itself is an amazingly diverse county. Cities such as Leeds and Sheffield have undergone a revival in recent years and are now hot spots for those after a good quality night out. The infrastructure of Yorkshire is as good as can be expected with such a range of geography and the train services are especially good. And don't just head for the big cities either. Towns such as Skipton and Settle are worth a visit.

The Bradford Golf Club

A HERBERT FOWLER MASTERPIECE SINCE 1923

Visit one of only 2 Yorkshire Herbert Fowler designed courses

The Bradford Golf Club is a fine example of Herbert Fowler's design principles - come and see how he used the land to make a quite stunning golf course with views across The Rombalds Moor.

Fowler believed strongly that courses should follow the contours of the land, and have a natural feeling, believing that topography could test the world's best golfers.

Kingsbarns Golf Links

SCOTLAND

What is there to say about the home of golf that the keen player doesn't already know? A trip to the 'inner sanctum' of golf, St Andrews, is something every die-hard player must do at some point in their life. The game has been grown and nurtured on the site for 600 years and there is a daily lottery for a tee time on The Old Course, such is the popularity of the club. Staying at the high end, Gleneagles is the Ryder Cup course for 2014 and there is also world-famous five star accommodation to enjoy as well.

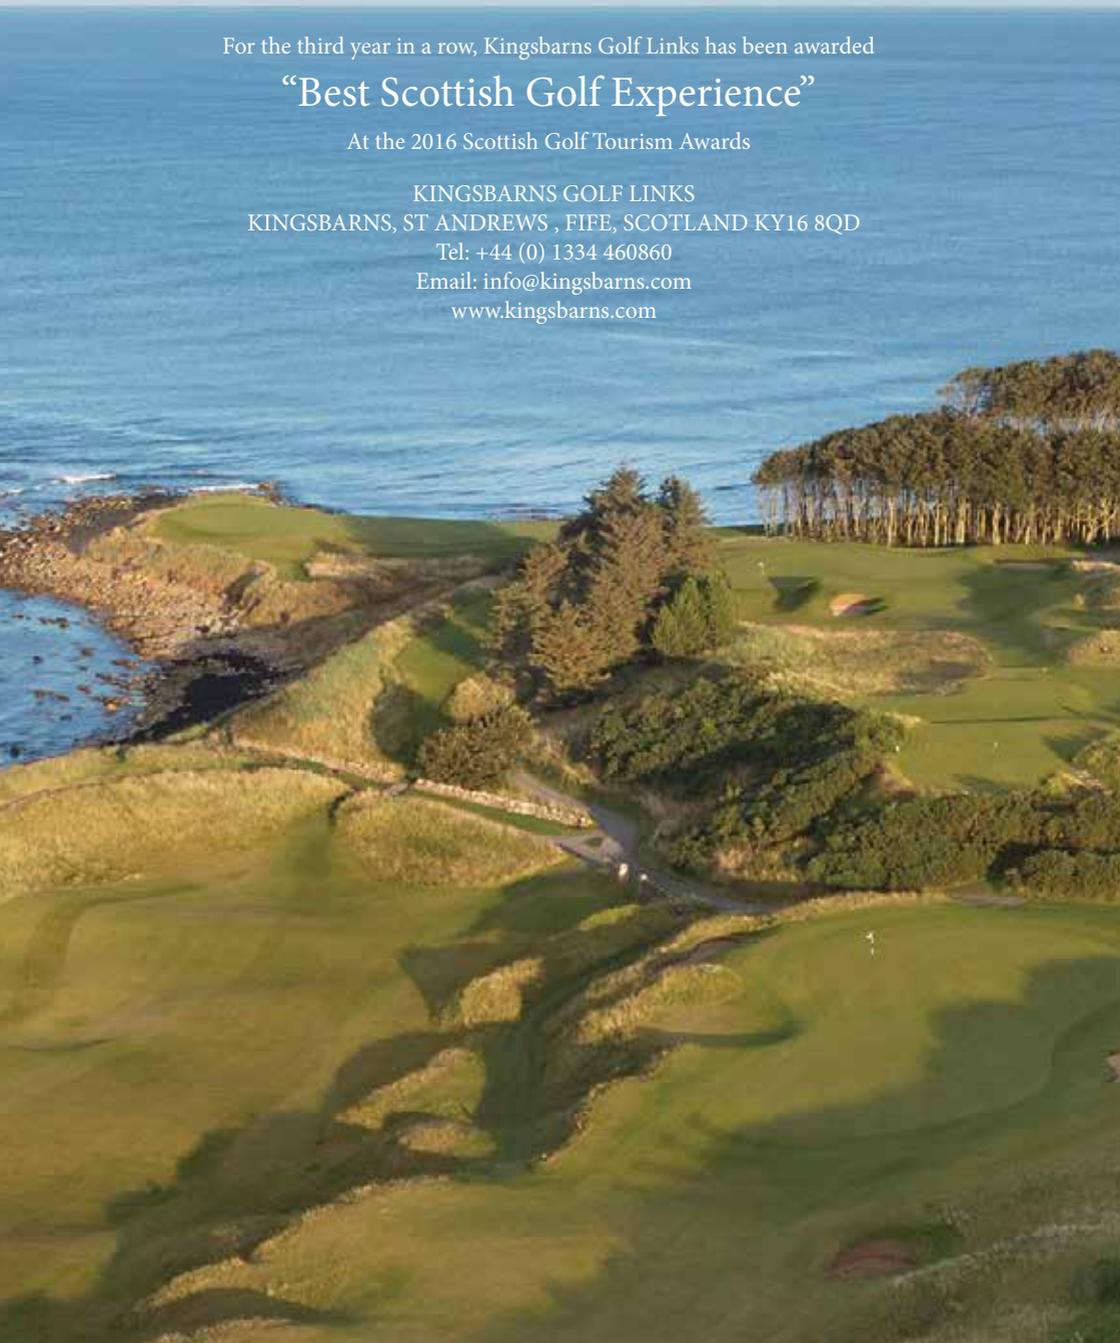

Scotland is well known for having some great cities. Glasgow is the largest and the third most populated in the UK, so if you want an ultra-urban experience it is ideal. Glasgow's smaller brother – Edinburgh- is the capital city and has a much smaller feel but still attracts over 1 million visitors a year. Aberdeen is also a hot spot for tourists and it also sells itself as an ideal stag night location. And don't forget the smaller towns and villages, all of which are surrounded by beautiful and rugged countryside.

For the third year in a row, Kingsbarns Golf Links has been awarded “Best Scottish Golf Experience”

At the 2016 Scottish Golf Tourism Awards

Carnoustie Golf Links

ANGUS

Angus is known as the ‘cradle of golf’ and its 34 courses have influenced golf across the world. Carnoustie Golf Links has been a golf course since the 16th century and has 3 courses to choose from. Carnoustie is on The Open rotation and has a reputation as a difficult course. It is also one of 3 courses on the Alfred Dunhill Links competition rotation. For an inland course, Kirriemuir Golf Club has a heathland/parkland layout and is the perfect length for a whole day of golf. The 17th and 18th holes are especially good. In the local area, there are plenty of small villages and towns to stay in.

The largest town is Arbroath, which has nightlife, an annual airshow and the opportunity to try one of the world-famous ‘Arbroath smokies’ (smoked haddock). Not far away is the Loch of Kinnordy nature reserve which is a great place to try bird watching or have a nice walk. Brechin Castle is also worth taking a trip to as it has a shopping centre, visitors centre and museum in its grounds.

Panmure Golf Club (founded 1845)

This current Open Regional Qualifying course, a two miles south from Carnoustie on the road to Dundee. Panmure has all the characteristics of a championship links, great variety of holes, superb bunkering and turf quality second to none. Hillocks and heather present the same challenge as the more traditional sand dunes but all three obstacles abound at Panmure.

Ben Hogan spent two weeks on the links prior to the Open at Carnoustie in 1953, getting used to the terrain, tight lies and the 1.62 inch ball. It is even reported he cut the 17th green to his specification, and returned the cleaned mower to the head greenkeeper! He won the Open by four shots, creating a course record with 68 in the final round, his one and only appearance in the championship. The 6th hole named after Ben Hogan is one of Scotland's greatest par fours, semi blind tee shot to the undulating fairway followed by an uphill second shot to a tight raised green guarded by the bunker suggested by the great man himself poses a stern test. The real quality of the course is in the next few holes — so often the case in links golf — either side of the turn. The 7th a testing par four at 418 yards, the 9th a classic par three, the 10th a long dogleg right, don't underestimate the par three 11th, 12th the famous Buddon Burn hole and 13 with it's dramatic sweeping green, penalties await wayward shots at any of this stretch. The 18th hole brings you home to the view of the majestic Clubhouse, one of Scotlands finest and a warm welcome awaits after their round.

Have a look round the walls and feel the history of this unique and famous Club.

For 2017 we again host the Open Championship regional qualifying, Scotland's only venue.

Our 450-year heritage is found in each of the 36 holes on the two courses at Montrose Links – the Medal and the Broomfield courses.

Argyll and Bute is the setting for Machrihanish Championship golf course, one of the best in the world and an essential round if you are playing in the area. Dundonald Links Golf Club

AYRSHIRE

If you are after a good mix of links and parkland courses to choose from, then Ayrshire has a lot to offer. Royal Troon Golf Club will be the focus of 2016 in the area when it plays host to the 145th Open in July (tip, don't try to book your society in between 10th-17th. The course will be busy!) But if you have a taste for the open, why not try out the course where it all began, Prestwick. The greens are true and quick and the course itself is an appealing challenge offering a fair share of blind shots.

Ayrshire itself is incredibly fertile, meaning that in the summer months, local restaurants are awash with local fruits and vegetables. If you are after a distraction from golf, then a visit to one of the ruined castles is a great way to spend a few hours. Or for a more in-depth look at local history, visit Dalgarden Mill which is a completely restored mill with the Museum of Ayrshire Country Life included as well. And don't forget that Ayrshire is the home of Johnny Walker, so it would be rude not to sample a dram to two!

Western Gailes Golf Club

Western Gailes is a highly traditional Scottish private members club renowned for the exceptional condition of its undulating links and friendly clubhouse where all our visitors are 'members for the day'. Unlike many links courses where the sea is almost completely hidden by massive dunes, or where the course itself is now a long way from the sea, at Western Gailes you are always aware of its presence and beauty, particularly so on the marvellous stretch of holes from the 5th to the 13th. The course puts no more emphasis on length than it does on the delicate approach shot or the well-struck medium or long-iron, but all these skills are examined during a round at Western Gailes. Perhaps that is why, combined with its beautiful setting and most warm welcome, it has captivated so many golfers for so long.

SCOTTISH BORDERS

There are not many single holes that are worth a detour, but if you are in the Borders, you mustn't miss the famous 6th at Eyemouth Golf Club. Voted the oddest hole in the UK, your swing had better be good to get your drive across a vast gully. Many balls have been lost to the North Sea on this hole! For some great views of the Borders countryside, then play a round at West Linton Golf course which is overlooked by the majestic Mendick Hill.

The Borders is quintessentially Scottish but also within easy reach of England. On the Eastern side of the county, the Berwickshire Coastal Path offers some stunning walks while further inland, there are also some fantastic walks and mountain biking to be enjoyed in the Glentress Forest. The Borders is known as a friendly place and there is a range of possible accommodation from a cabin in the hills to town houses in serviced apartments in the main urban areas.

DUMFRIES AND GALLOWAY

Although not regarded as the best part of Scotland for golf, there are still several courses that offer an enjoyable and challenging round. Stranraer Golf Club is situated on the cliffs beside Loch Ryan and is laid out over former farmland with mature trees making excellent obstacles. Cally Palace is a much newer course and was opened in 1994. Although the course will make for a great round, it is exclusive to the hotel, so make sure you are planning to stay over as well!

The natural beauty of the area means that just stepping out the door is an adventure! But there are also loads of attractions as well, including some fantastic castles and Robert Burns' former home, Ellisland Farm, which is now a museum. With a very long coastline, seafood is naturally in abundance in local restaurants across the area and also make sure you try Moffat toffee, a local, traditional sweet which has been made in Dumfries and Galloway since the late 1800s.

Portpatrick Dunskey Golf Club, Golf Course Road,
PORTPATRICK, Stranraer DG9 8TB

Welcome To Portpatrick Dunskey

If you have never visited this part of South West Scotland before, we guarantee you will not be disappointed with this hidden gem.

From this delightful golf course, there are spectacular views to the Irish coastline, Belfast Lough, Mountains of Mourne, the Mull of Kintyre and even the Isle of Man.

We boast 2 splendid courses (18 hole Dunskey & 9 hole Par 3 Dinvin), both of which are in superb condition and playable all throughout the year, thanks to the 'Gulf Stream' effect.

We pride ourselves in the warmth of welcome, terrific hospitality and fabulous greens. This is indeed a place to play golf in comfortable and relaxed surroundings - our aim to make your visit enjoyable and memorable. The picturesque harbour village of Portpatrick also boasts an array of hotels, B&B, restaurants - and plenty activities for all the family.

We very much look forward to welcoming you all to this part of the country and in particular to Portpatrick Dunskey Golf Club.

Craigmillar Park Golf Club

EAST LOTHIAN

There are 22 courses in East Lothian which is home to some rather special courses. Muirfield Golf Club started life in Leith in 1744 and moved to its current home in 1891. In its history it has hosted 11 amateur championships and 15 opens. The fantastic course has changed little since it was redesigned in 1936. Visitor days are Tuesdays and Thursdays. Dunbar Golf Club is also a joy to play. It was established in 1856 and the current course was designed by Old Tom Morris in 1894. Situated at the estuary of the Firth of Forth, all of the major Scottish Championships have been played there at some point.

The course is well known for being especially welcoming to guests. East Lothian has plenty to offer other than just some great golf courses. The area is home to the Musselburgh Racecourse if you fancy a flutter. The Brunto Theatre in Musselburgh attracts some of the biggest names in theatre and it is always worth checking what is on before you visit. But East Lothian is also the birthplace of conservationist John Muir and as a consequence the surroundings and countryside are second to none. Walkers bring your boots!

The Duke's Golf Club

FIFE

With St Andrews within its borders, Fife really is the Home of Golf. Golfing at St Andrews is a once in a lifetime experience, but also one you must be prepared for. There are very few two or four ball bookings available for the Old Course and your best bet is for the whole society to enter the ballot. At least one of you might get on the course! But there are other options for your society as there are six other top quality courses to choose as well as the sheer experience of being at the home of The R&A. Aside from At Andrews, there are plenty of other courses in the area to keep an eye on.

There are 45 other clubs in the area ranging from basic parkland courses to complex links clubs. St Andrews itself is a wonderfully historic and interesting place to stay. The Medieval university city is great if you only have time for a wander around between rounds. There are also beaches close by and loads of country walks to be had around the coast. Another great place to stay is Kirkcaldy, which is the biggest settlement in Fife. Here you can find a great museum and gallery as well as the Adam Smith Theatre.

With panoramic views of the 'Home Of Golf', St Andrews, The Duke's is highly regarded as one of the finest heathland championship courses on the British Isles. Experience it for yourself with our range of group offers:

HIGHLANDS

There are fewer places in the world that offer such a stunning background in which to play golf as the Highlands. Nairn Golf Club on the shores of the Moray Firth is a traditional Scottish Links set amongst natural gorse and heather and is officially the number 9 in the Scotland's Top 100 courses.

The Highlands itself offers some stunning walks and some other activities, such as skiing, which aren't available in other parts of the UK. A trip to Loch Ness is also an ideal way to spend an afternoon and the whole area is full of wonderful self-catering accommodation, ideal for a society trip.

Gleneagles

PERTSHIRE

Perthshire has a long golfing legacy, indeed it is ironic that James IV of Scotland, who tried to ban the game as it conflicted with archery practice, made the first recorded purchase of golfing equipment - a set of clubs from a Bow Maker in Perth in 1502! This golfing heritage and recent course developments ensures that there is a wide range of options for golfers of all ages and abilities. Choose from scenic Highland layouts, idyllic parkland settings, world famous centres such as Gleneagles and Rosemount at Blairgowrie and many 'hidden gems' spread throughout the area. The main challenge won't be navigating your way successfully around the course, more keeping your eye on the ball amidst such stunning surroundings. Known as 'the big county', Perthshire has incredible scenery and incorporates everything you think of as being typically Scottish. The Southern Highlands lend themselves to all sorts of outdoor activities and add a fantastic back-drop to your golfing holiday. But it needn't be a rural affair as the city of Perth itself offers a modern and well-connected place to stay with plenty of galleries, restaurants and bars to explore.

LANARKSHIRE

Close to Glasgow, traveling to Lanarkshire from the South and London is best done by air. There are 40 golf clubs to choose from in the area, many of which are clustered, making it easy to take in two in a day. Lanark Golf Club is considered the best and is the 25th oldest club in the world. Shotts Golf Club is situated close to the M8, making it easy to get to from Glasgow. It is also a James Braid course, so you can guarantee a challenging round.

Mining was a big industry in Lanarkshire for many years and now there are plenty of heritage centres and museums to visit which preserve and explain the mining way of life in Scotland. There are also several centres offering country sports, such as clay target shooting. A good night out can also be had in Glasgow after a long day on the course.

WALES

Having some of the finest parkland and links in the UK, Wales has some 200 courses. Golf in Wales was thrust into the spotlight in 2010 when the Ryder Cup was played at Celtic Manor and despite the weather of that day being quite a bad advert, the competition still attracted many visitors in the last few years. And it is a country so perfectly designed for the game with most spectacular scenery and fertile grasslands. A visit to West Monmouthshire GC will allow you to play the highest hole in the UK (14th, 1,518 feet above sea level). Nefyn and District also takes the unofficial title of the windiest course, a challenge for even the most accomplished golfer.

Within a few hours' drive of most major cities in England, Wales can offer a multitude of attractions and activities and its popularity as a holiday destination has grown massively in recent years. From the mountains of Brecon to the city lights of Cardiff, there is a place in Wales to suit any needs. The weather might not always be ideal, but the countryside is always beautiful, even in the rain.

THE DRIVE

Conwy Golf Links

One of the most well-known images in the world of the early days of golf, The Drive was painted in 1893 by Douglas Adams, when Conwy was the only golf course in North Wales, and one of only a handful in Wales.

THE DRIVE to the course is less than an hour from Cheshire and Merseyside, and just over an hour from Manchester and The Potteries. The course is easily accessed from the A55 (Junction 17), SAT NAV LL32 8ER and has magnificent views over the Conwy estuary to the mountains of Snowdonia and the Anglesey coastline.

Carton House - Montgomerie course 18th Hole

IRELAND

It's been a particularly memorable decade for Irish golf, what with the 2006 Ryder Cup at The K Club and Pádraig Harrington winning back-to-back Open Championships, not to mention a Major winning performance of one Graeme McDowell! Consequently, interest in golf in the country has never been higher. Royal Portrush in North Antrim is the only golf course outside of mainland UK to have hosted The Open Championship and offers 36 classic holes. Royal County Down in Newcastle, staged the 2007 Walker Cup and offers a fast paced course with playable rough in most areas.

Tourism has never been more important to Ireland, whose economy is notoriously in need of a boost. But with cheap flights from all over the UK and stunning countryside, culture and attractions on offer, Ireland offers a very attractive destination. For a cosmopolitan feel, Belfast, Dublin and Cork are all bustling with things to do. With the majority of the country rural, there are also thousands of cottages and country houses to stay in, making it ideal for groups.
